REMARKS

25X1X

1. The Tri Duby (Q 49/C 74) airfield was a military installation. It was called Velka Luka airfield and had no drainage facilities or surfaced runways or taxiways. It dried rapidly after rainfalls. (1)
2. Four hangars, each off about 20 x 50 meters, were standing at the eastern edge of the field; two of them were built in 1950. A navigation station was at the northern border of the field. (2)
3. Occupied barracks installations were south of the airfield and east of the road to Zvolen (Q 49/C 74). The guard detail at the field was billeted in Sliac Kupole (Q 49/C 74). (3) Three gliders were in a hangar. (4)

- (1) The location of the airfield was reported previously. See [REDACTED] In these reports it was mentioned that the installation was not provided with runways or taxiways. According to one of these reports, the field also was used by commercial planes from Banska Bystrica (Q 49/C 76). The fact that the field is called Velka Luka, after a village located about 3 km to the southeast, is reported for the first time. For layout of the field, see Annex.

- (2) It was previously reported that the field had only two hangars in October 1950. [REDACTED] Since source of the present report personally entered the field on an air day for students his information on the construction of two new hangars in 1950 is believed to be correct.
